

Jeffry D. Harris

Of Counsel

Jeffry Harris' practice spans the experience gained during his career working in Ohio's economic development. Grant administration, financial incentives modeling and negotiations, nonprofit board governance, Ohio Sunshine Laws, abandoned property redevelopment and handling federal funds all were touch points gleaned from his positions in state, county and municipal government work in Ohio. Jeffry currently advises clients – in both the public and private sectors – in the legal aspects of running programs, accessing funds and implementing financial tools.

As a public finance attorney in the firm, Jeffry is counsel to local governments, county land banks, private developers and nonprofit organizations. Since the onset of COVID-19, Jeffry has occupied something of a niche role, guiding public sector clients in the intricacies of American Rescue Plan Act stimulus funds; he often fields calls from around the country as to whether and how ARPA funds can be deployed in various initiatives.

Jeffry especially enjoys helping clients understand the quantitative effects of legal concepts in public finance settings. A fan of multi-tabbed spreadsheets, he works with others at the firm to model real property tax exemption mechanisms, such as Tax Increment Financing (TIF) and Enterprise Zone and CRA tax abatements. Jeffry strives to help clients determine if the "juice is worth the squeeze" when considering various economic development incentives.

Having worked across multiple levels in Ohio, Jeffry "speaks government." He assists clients in understanding and implementing public finance solutions to development problems.

Experience

Advise public entities on spending ARPA funds

The firm currently advises approximately three dozen public entity clients across Ohio. We often take calls from around the country based on our regularly published articles detailing whether and how to spend ARPA funds. Our work includes serving as ARPA counsel to one of the nation's largest municipal recipients of federal stimulus funds and advising several counties that have collectively received hundreds of millions in ARPA funds.

Goal-setting for southeastern Ohio communities' short-term development

Advised five local governments in Ohio's Appalachian Region in pursuing near-term economic development goals. Provided plan deliverables to each community, with recommended steps to be taken in expanding broadband access, developing "spec" buildings, financing public improvements, and using one-time American Rescue Plan Act funds for critical infrastructure.

Legal counsel in deploying CARES Act's Coronavirus Relief Fund Payments

Advise regional organizations and political subdivisions in the lawful use of federal Coronavirus Relief Fund Payments, often under rushed deadlines. Provide guidance in local governments' efforts to distribute desperately needed cash during the COVID-19 public health emergency, dispensing advice as to specific expenditures related to particular needs in the communities.

Legal counsel concerning public records and open meetings under Ohio's

Advised an economic development organization's board under the Open Meetings Act, including lawful sharing of information during executive session. Provided legal advice on which records in the organization were public and which could be lawfully withheld from requesters.

Of Counsel

General Counsel to county land bank in western Ohio

Advised new county land reutilization corporation (i.e., county land bank) in its formation, including generating and reviewing the entire set of incorporating documents and guiding the proper State filings. Provide general legal counsel to land bank's operations, often in the context of "Can we do this?" questions posed by the client.

Revolving Loan Fund practitioner

Administered all aspects of a county-level economic development loan fund, including originating loans, processing loan applications, and generating the entire set of documents comprising each loan's closing binder.

How-to guidance to local economic developers in accessing State funds

Engaged by multiple regional network partners in Ohio to guide their member economic developers in accessing JobsOhio funding opportunities.
